

Rethinking Management in the Adult and Sex Industry

Seeking Research Participants

- Do you have experience organizing, supervising, managing, or coordinating people working in the adult and sex industry as of the year 2000?
- Are you interested in discussing your experience?
- Do you want to participate in a study that will help people understand the work you do or did?
- Would you be able to take part in a 2-3 hour interview?

Your anonymity is assured and a 100$ honorarium is offered

The research will:

- Document the experiences of management in strip-clubs, street-based sex work, massage parlours, and in and out-call establishments and escort services, from the manager's perspective
- Explore the relationships between managers, sex workers, and the other people involved in running the business (receptionists, drivers, agents, etc).
- Examine myths around sex work management
- Identify how laws and policies influence the management of sex work

Research conducted by: Chris Bruckert, Patrice Corriveau, Colette Parent and Jenn Clamen (UO); Lesley Jeffery (UNB, Saint John); Maria Nengeh Mensah (UQAM).

To participate in an interview contact:

sexmanagement@uottawa.ca

Phone number 1-866-940-2831 or (514) 938-6379

Website: www.sciencesociales.uottawa.ca/gis-msi

This project is endorsed and supported by various not for profit community groups run by and for sex workers across eastern Canada: Stepping Stone (Halifax), Prostitutes of Ottawa, Gatineau, Work Educate, Resist (Ottawa), Stella, l'amie de Maimie (Montreal) and Maggie's (Toronto).

